

Clarke Peterson

Lominger Limited, Inc. Associate Clarke Peterson is the owner and Principal Consultant at Atlanta Leadership Consulting, a leadership development consulting organization.

Mr. Peterson is an enthusiastic high-energy leadership development practitioner and executive coach, with over a decade of successful human resource executive experience as the human resources director for the Utica National Insurance Group. In recent years he became their organizational development director where he turned his full energy to improving managerial and executive leadership effectiveness in a way that yields strategic impact.

Clarke has expertise in management and executive assessment, development and coaching. He also is skilled at delivering workshops that heighten the understanding of psychological type and increase participant's effectiveness in communications, management and sales.

He has delivered presentations on practical and effective leadership development at local and national conferences.

Clarke offers his expertise to clients where he will design, develop and provide effective leadership development programs and other strategy-based training initiatives. For those clients wanting to do leadership development work in-house, he offers design consulting and provides training to internal consultants to facilitate the creation of effective in-house programs.

Clarke holds a bachelor's degree in sociology from the State University of New York – College at Cortland, and has completed the University Michigan's Human Resource Executive Program. Additionally, he is qualified to provide Myers-Briggs Type Indicator® psychological type assessments and training programs.
