Board effectiveness.

High performance begins with the board.

Boards often struggle with alignment, focus, CEOs, team dynamics, and interpersonal relationships. Boards that overcome their challenges work together as an effective team and make solid strategic decisions.

How effective is your board?

Korn Ferry research indicates that there are three key elements that influence board effectiveness. We work with you to address each one.

Korn Ferry's approach is to focus on these three elements in concert, while helping to build an effective governance model. We have an extensive portfolio of proven proprietary tools and methodologies, and science-based assessments that predict fit and gauge performance. Together, we work to accelerate and streamline the effectiveness of the board.

When the board is most effective, it sets the stage for the most effective CEO.

CEO effectiveness.

Drive bigger impact.

When you're the CEO, your skills, ability to influence, decision-making process, and executive presence are either your biggest advantages or hindrances. Your power lies in maximizing your effectiveness, and leveraging your time and relationships with your senior team, stakeholders, board, and public.

Like all great CEOs, you continually ask: how can I do it better?

We help you answer that.

Trusted guidance.

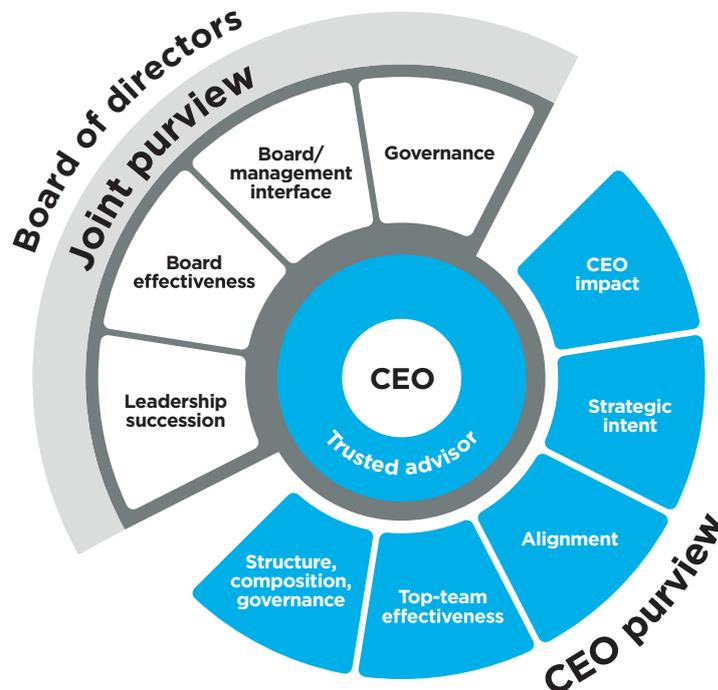

No two CEOs are alike. You have honed your leadership style and executive presence to align with your personality and values.

Our experienced C-suite consultants tailor their approach to meet your individual style and preference for a confidential, trusted advisor engagement. We speak your language, understand the pressures you face, and work to help you achieve a greater impact while balancing your personal and professional life.

Put Korn Ferry's team behind your team.
